Bitcamp is the University of Maryland's major league hackathon, bringing together 1000+ student attendees in April 10 - 12, 2015. Top student developers, designers, builders, and thinkers from around the country will come to College Park and spend 36 hours hacking together websites, apps, and hardware projects.

The University of Maryland won first place in the Fall 2013 Major League Hacking season over hundreds of other universities. We are pulling from this rich hacker community to make Bitcamp one of the best hackathons ever.

Bitcamp will be a great place to influence a diverse group of some of the brightest student makers in the nation, all working on different projects and fostering different skills. Bitcamp presents an excellent opportunity for recruitment and tech evangelism.

Check out the amazing diversity of projects from Bitcamp 2014:
